COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

Notice was received last week from the Maine Forest Service that Dutch Elm Disease has been found in Bethel. So far as known only one tree has been affected. The tree in question is located at the rear of the Grange Hall in West Bethel. This was determined as a result of tests made in the area of questionable trees by the Forest Service. The tree will be removed by the highway department within the next few days, after permission is granted by the Grange.

Dutch elm disease is caused by a fungus which is transmitted by the elm bark beetle. The adult beetles pick up the spores of the Dutch elm disease fungus on their bodies from diseased elm wood in which they have bred. In feeding in nearby healthy elm trees the beetles introduce the fungus spores into the water-conducting vessels of the tree and cause infection. The fungus can also be carried into undiseased elm logs or wood by the female bark beetles when they are making the egg tunnels and laying eggs.

Preventive measures employed are, 1) sanitation to prevent breeding and feeding of bark beetles; 2) spraying to prevent feeding of bark beetles; and 3) general care of elms to maintain their thriftiness.

Up to the present time the town has conducted a trimming program within the amount appropriated. Bethel Ins. Gould Academy and some individuals have given their trees proper attention.

Sincerely,
Harold L. Bean

The people who write about the scenic wonders of New England were treated to a three-day, firsthand look at the region's Fall foliage show during the national convention of the American Travel Writers Association.

Ease of operations for the convention was the main factor in the choice of the New England Club at Vergennes, Vt., where the five-day session started Sept. 19.

The trip carried across upper Vermont and New Hampshire Monday to the Mountain View House at Whitefield, N. H., for lunch. A drive through Crawford and Plakham Notches was on the afternoon schedule before an overnight stop at the Bethel Inn.

The literary carried through the Maine lakes region to the coast, on down to Wentworth-by-the-Sea, N. H., for a noon-day New England clam bake on the shore, and thence to Boston, laden with fresh material for potential tourists throughout the nation.

Ancient Elms Taken Down in Motel Area

Five old elm trees on the Max Zallen property measuring about 50 inches in diameter at the base, were cut Saturday. Rings on the butt cuts indicated an age of 100 years or more.

Removal of these trees is in preparation of a parking area adjoining Mr. Zallen's motel, which will be in the former theatre structure nearby. The trees were on the lawn of the former Robertson (Angella Clark) residence on Main and Elm Streets.

The present Zallen home, which has been removed to a new site at the rear of the theatre building (see Sept. 18 Citizen), was for generations a most attractive and charming homestead in its beautiful elm shaded setting. While the loss of the trees is regretted by Mr. and Mrs. Zallen, it was discovered as the trees were cut into short lengths that there were many hollow-hearted and unsafe sections of the trees.

LIFE LINES

by Col. Ralph T. Miller of The Salvation Army

OPRESSED BUT NOT DEFEATED

We read in the book of Exodus, that when the children of Israel were persecuted by the Egyptians, "the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied and grew." (Exodus 1:12)

It takes faith sometimes to see it, but the more we are oppressed by spiritual and temporal enemies, the more our souls prosper. When dangers distress us, when burdens heavily upon us, then it is that God bestows to our aid, and makes the very adversity an occasion of our growth. The ways of God are truly wonderful.

I suppose that if we could have our own way, we would choose to avoid discomfort and suffering, for it is human to rebel against them. But who are the great souls that we have known? Not those whose lives were easy, but those whose lives had been tempered upon the anvil of adversity.

God is not much good in its natural form. The ore has to be smelted. Diamonds are made of the same material as coal, so we are told that the carbon in the coal has been transformed by a lightning flash.

Let us not forget—when the pressure is greatest, when our need is most desperate, then God is nearest. If we believe, He will deliver us, even as He delivered the children of Israel in their extremity.

MAN'S RECIPE

HAYDEN'S APPLE SPECIAL

One of my boyhood memories is picking apples in the fall. We had 100 half-acre farms on our farm. Some years we picked, sorted and packed into barrels, right in the orchard. Some years we hauled the apples to the big barn and piled the fruit in huge bins.

Then later, during the fall, Father and I would sort the apples over at our house. I can still see those long, tapered bins of colorful apples, and in memory I can still smell that heady, pungent fragrance in the west end of the barn.

If you like apple crumble desserts, you may enjoy trying this. There are plenty of calories! But sometimes it is good for us to step on something else and to have a serving of dessert.

The serving of eight medium-sized apples thinly sliced, one cup sugar, one half teaspoon nutmeg, one half teaspoon cinnamon, one cup plus one tablespoon flour, one and a fourth cups baking powder, and a half teaspoon salt, one eighth teaspoon baking soda, two eggs beaten, two tablespoons butter or margarine melted, one tablespoon water.

Mix the apple slices, cup of sugar, nutmeg and cinnamon, and spread in a greased eight by eight pan.

In a large bowl, put the unsifted flour, one and a fourth cups sugar, one half teaspoon nutmeg, one half teaspoon cinnamon, one cup plus one tablespoon flour, one and a fourth cups baking powder, and a half teaspoon salt.

P.T.A. Sets Membership Month

They'll Knock On Igloo Doors In Newest State

When more than eleven million P.T.A. members open their annual Membership Enrollment month this October, they will be urged to "knock on every door" to find new members interested in advancing the welfare of children.

Some of those doors may open to the oldest dwellings in the Western Hemisphere—some 150 homes in Alaska, scheduled soon to become the nation's 49th state.

Here, as throughout the U.S., the National Congress of Parents and Teachers will seek to add some half-million new "parents, teachers or friends of children" to what is already the nation's largest voluntary service organization.

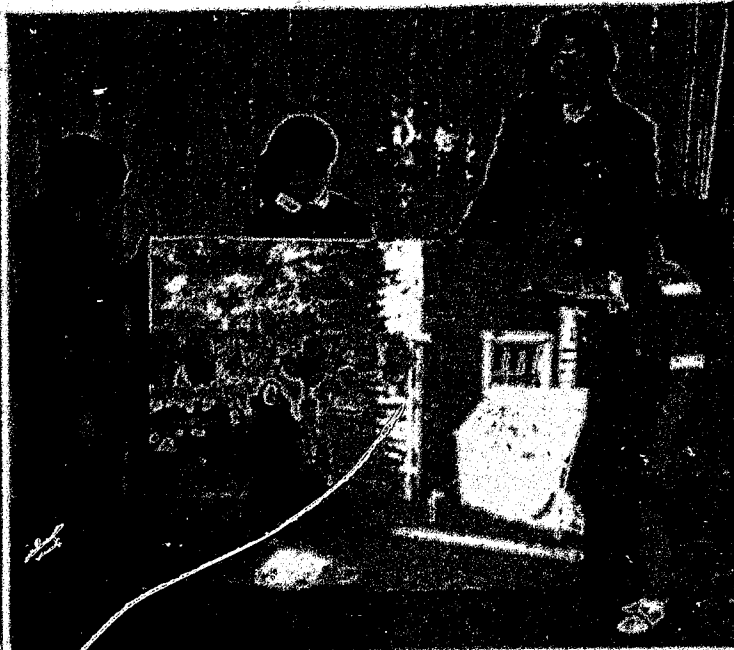

Mrs. James C. Parker, of Grand Rapids, Mich., president of the National Congress, cites "the dynamic potential of Alaska, our newest state," as "comparable to the spirit which has enabled Parent-Teacher associations to contribute so much to the welfare of children."

The variety and scope of P.T.A. activities in the 49-year history of the National Congress are reflected today. Mrs. Parker noted, in the everyday life of Alaskans which ranges in spirit from the quite sophisticated to the "truly frontier."

Alaska's Congress of Parents and Teachers, which became part of the national organization in 1957, today faces problems which can be compared, Mrs. Parker pointed out, with those recorded over the years in their American communities or in its largest cities. For it is a land where . . .

School youngsters may live for miles in a dog sled in a crowded, poorly-heated quarters, or walk across the street to a modern, several story building.

—Where accountants, school

"Here is the child's first school," explains Mrs. James C. Parker, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, whether it's in Point Barrow, Alaska, or the continental U.S. Here, Chicago school children examine pictures of Eskimo family standing under strips of caribou meat outside their far north home. In proclaiming October as P.T.A. Membership Enrollment month, Mrs. Parker points out that development of P.T.A.'s in Alaska, soon to become the nation's 49th state, parallels the organization's pioneering days in this country.

Teachers and government workers regularly make trips "back in the bush" to hunt and fish for food for their families—and store it in modern freezers.

—Where the Eskimo is the accepted means of travel between cities, but where the number of sled dogs is increasing.

—Where Eskimo in schools with large Eskimo or Indian populations must teach a second language—English—to many of their charges, while other schools, especially those of U.S. army bases, maintain typically American libraries, theaters and bowling alleys as part of their recreation program.

Aims of the National Congress membership month will apply equally well in this dynamic new state, Mrs. Parker pointed out, as in its member organizations throughout the continental United States, in Hawaii and on European military bases in Europe.

"For the primary purpose of the P.T.A.," she explained, "is to safeguard children, to build for the future in such a way that in every community the lights of home may always shine out."

In designating October as the period for membership enrollment, she called upon "every parent-teacher member to knock once more on the door, and at the heart of every American, so that all of us, working together, may make America the best possible home for all our children."

COUNTRY FLAVOR

Of what can a man be certain when he sees greed and self-gloryification dominate the actions of men? Are there still solid foundations stones when hatred and intolerance so frequently generate poison in men's minds? When the trivial, banal and vulgar hold the attention of so many, is it cause for despair?

As long as the mountains and hills rise steadfast and serene against the sky and the great rivers run to the ocean, the virtues that give faith and meaning to life will remain their power. As long as the story of autumn flames on northland hills and covers valley woodlands with beauty, so long will the principles that guide men's feet toward truth hold validity. As long as men plant seeds in Earth's warming breast, nurture the crops and reap the full corn in the ear, men's faith will remain strong. As long as men believe that with a winter is done the resurrection will come, so long will the virtues guide toward a higher goal.

As long as man stands at ocean's edge and ponders the mystery of the seas, as long as he stands on a hilltop at dusk and watches stars shine through night's curtain, as long as his heart responds to the song of a hermit thrush in a quiet woodland, so long will foundation principles guide his feet.

Man is a strange and paradoxical creature, often given to perverseness and rationalization. He refuses to benefit from the experience of others and chooses to make his own mistakes. Dictators for a time may wield brutal power and nations have risen to heights and sunk to depths but history's lesson is plain if one chooses to read. For individuals and for nations, the virtues are the foundation stones. As long as there are men with faith and principle, they will lead toward the day when the Golden Rule will become the guiding beacon.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Thursday, September 25

Road Psalm 121:7

I said, I will confess my transgressions unto the Lord; and thou forgavest the iniquity of my sin. (Psalm 121:8).

COME years ago I was pastor in a rural church. I often visited a blind man, who was almost 90 years old. I would read the Bible to him and pray. He would tell me of his work in former years.

One time when I paid a visit to him, he was very dejected. He said he had something he must confess. So he told of an old sin done in his early youth. The remembrance of it had been a burden on his soul through all the years. But he had never had the courage to confess.

As a result, his heart could find no peace.

He now asked me to pray together with him that the Lord would forgive him and give him peace. This is an illustration of the great truth given in Psalm 32. If we try to hide our sin, we will not find peace. If we acknowledge our transgressions unto the Lord, He will forgive our sin.

PRAYER: Our Heavenly Father, help us, we pray Thee, to bring every sin to the throne of grace. Forgive us our transgressions and give us peace—Thy eternal peace. In the name of Christ Amen.

When Christ cleanses us of sin and reconciles us to God, we find peace. Johan Hansen (Norway)

Out Of This World Tires

NO FLYING SAUCER in the New Hampshire skies! It is a passenger car tire (see inset) exploding under tremendous internal pressure during tests of tire rupture resistance. The tests, conducted by a research firm for American Vis-cose Corporation, proved that modern tires can withstand many times the normal operating pressure without danger of blow-outs. Rayon and nylon tires from leading manu-facturers were tested. Rayon tires showed a slight super-iority in the rupture resistance tests. Some of the tires, reinforced with a new super rayon tire cord, had to be raised up to 300 pounds per square inch internal pressure before the tire body ruptured. Passenger car tires usually are inflated to about 24 pounds per square inch.

From my front porch
By CARL HELM

The other day I was trying to recall something interesting I heard on a TV news program, and for the life of me I couldn't. It was an interesting fact that I wanted to store away for fu-ture use, and I wished I could have a "gray-back" of it. I'm sure that you can't have an exact record of a fact or anything else goes out on the air it van-ishes into the ether unless you've locked it up in your brain cells.

That's what I like about a pa-per, and I don't throw them out until they begin to get old. I go back and look up something I've gone semi-forgotten, and I'm sure all over again. You can't clip out the item and file it away, if you have the habit of a "forgettery" memory that I have.

And that's why newspaper want to have and throw out after something as it comes now something old again, and never the displaced into and TV.

V. A. NEWSLETTER

Overnight on the part of many Maine veterans may deprive their families of money at a time when they need it most. M. L. Stoddard, Manager, Veterans Administration Center, Togus, warns.

Stoddard said an increasing number of cases are coming to light in which proceeds from GI life insurance were paid to other than the veterans immediate family. In most of these cases, Stoddard said, it can be presumed that the veteran, through carelessness, failed to keep his VA life insurance policy in force.

Main veterans holding GI insurance policies were urged by Stoddard to notify VA immediately of any desired changes in beneficiaries to match the changes in family status occasioned through marriage, divorce, births, or deaths.

Stoddard said VA is required by law to pay GI insurance proceeds to the beneficiary of record, whether or not the beneficiary still is in any way connected with the veteran.

In many cases, Stoddard said, the beneficiaries of record are the same ones the policyholders named when they took out their policies, even though they have since married and now have families.

"If any of these policyholders should die today," Stoddard said, "VA would have to pay the GI insurance proceeds to the beneficiaries of record, instead of to the veteran's widow or children."

Changes of beneficiaries can be made at any time without notifying the beneficiaries, but they must be made in writing over the policyholder's signature and sent to the Philadelphia District Office, P. O. Box 8079 in order to be made beneficiaries of record under the law, Stoddard said.

Additional information and assistance may be obtained at the nearest VA office.

Under the supervision of its advisor, Mr. Dupluis, Officers elected for the coming year were: President, Alice Young; Vice President, Bonnie Cyr; Secretary, Judie Ellingwood; Treasurer, Jean Coffin, and Herschel McLaughlin as Student Council representative. After election the various ways in which they could earn money for their class funds, were discussed.

MASON JAR TO CELEBRATE 100th BIRTHDAY

John Landis Mason and the jar he patented in 1858.

November 30, 1958 marks the one-hundredth birthday of the Mason jar and this long famous and familiar glass container enters its second century as modern as it is historic. While there have been modifications and improvements, John Landis Mason's basic invention has faithfully served American families for a full century. The father of all glass containers with tops that screw on, the Mason jar is today a household article in literally millions of U.S. homes. The chemically inert qualities of glass preserves fresh flavors and its clear transparency permits re-use, they can be stored without effort.

The son of a Scottish farmer, John Mason was born in Vinaland, New Jersey, in 1832. As a young man, he moved to New York where he died in 1902.
